GENEVIEVE,

From the French of Hyppolyte Etiennez.

Translated for the Commercial Journal.

Genevieve, we have already said, was remarkably beautiful. The young men were the first to discover her; and, from the day following that on which she opened, she saw herself surrounded by a crowd of admirers, eagerly pressing around her and seeking with avidity, her bouquets. Louis d'or and compliments showered upon her from all sides; and it was astonishing to see how Genevieve seemed to multiply herself in order to wait upon all. The young girl was obliged to turn off a great many customers; for, in an instant, her store was empty, and she was still desirous of preserving her heart.

Such was the scene which continued to take place for several successive days. Little by little, however, the crowd grew less; but the reputation of the young florist was completely established. The greatest ladies of the court wished to supply themselves from her workmanship. Immediately, the whole town followed their example, and that too, so well, that in less than a year, the young girl had realized a considerable fortune.

This fortune did not lessen the taste which Genevieve had for her new occupation. She purchased a larger and finer house in the Rue Montorgueil, and gave herself up to her art with a greater ardor than ever. Father Poultier, however, resignee his situation in the market; Francoise sold her stall and Baptiste, whose visits home had always been very rare, began now to come there very frequently, drawn by another passion than that of flowers. Good eating and pecuniary aid from his sister soon, produced a salutary effect on the young man; he became in a short time, fat, rosy and fresh looking, so that he excited the envy of all his comrades, and a host of them desired to share with him his good and their own evil fortune; soldiers, are naturally, fond of sweet emotions this predisposition acts as a counterpoise to the other emotions of the profession. One of them, especially, distinguished himself by his silly flattering attention: Julian, that was his name, fulfilled the duties of drummer in the French Guards. He was, without contradiction, the finest looking man in his regiment, so that Baptiste shunned him as much as possible, because he suffered by comparison with the drummer. But his antipathy could not withstand the repeated flatteries of Julian, who at last succeeded in introducing himself into Genevieve's house.

Like most handsome men, Julian was conceited and presuming; he soon fell in love with the eyes and dinners of the pretty florist, and was constantly fluttering around her. Genevieve had afar different idea in her head, and paid no attention to the drummer's amorous glance. He was not a little surprised at such a slight, he was not accustomed to see himself disdained for any length of time, but convinced that his triumph was only delayed, he resigned himself with patience and betook himself, in the interim, to the dimers.

Among the numerous admirers of her flowers and her beauty, Genevieve had remarked a young man scarcely twenty-two years of age. Every morning, as soon as her windows were opened and before any other customer had made his appearance, he entered the store, approached timidly, took a bouquet, placed the modest sum of twelve sous on the counter and retired without speaking a word, but glancing affectionately at Genevieve.

Genevieve would have given a great deal to know who that young man was, but how to learn it, how to ask it? Her want of this knowledge rendered the young girl very unhappy. At last an unforeseen event gratified her curiosity.

It was on a Sunday. Father and Mother Poultier had concluded to dine that day at the Porcherons.—Genevieve did not dare to express her dislike to this arrangement, as it might be interpreted in such a manner as to wound the feelings of the family. She let her parents go before and promised to join them during the course of the day, with Baptiste, whose duties would detain him at the barracks a part of the morning.

The Porcherons were at that time at the place which is now occupied by the church of our Lady of Koretto. The two young people went gaily along the Rue Montmarre, when suddenly, on arriving at the gate which closed this street on the side of the Boulevard, Genevieve perceived the young unknown coming towards her. She blushed, hung her head and sought to draw her brother along rapidly, but in this he resisted her, Baptiste suddenly stopt, making the customary military salute—

"Baptiste," eagerly asked the young girl, "do you know that young man?;"

"Parbleu! that is my captain."

"Your captain! his name?"

The Duke of Edesse. He would like to buy a regiment, but they say that his father is an old spendthrift—That is the reason why he commands only a company. After all, he is a Prince of the blood, although the king has refused to recognise him."

Baptiste, like all soldiers, when once set to conversing about their profession was proceeding with the history of his captain, but Genevieve was no longer listening to him.

This discovery was indeed a thunderbolt for the young girl. Without doubt, the unknown had in his countenance and manners, a distinction which betrayed by no means a vulgar origin; but the simplicity of his dress, the moderate price which he paid for his bouquets were far from leaving one imagine that he was a nobleman, much less a Prince of the blood.—Deceived by these false appearances, Genevieve then had opened her heart without restraint to the tender glances of the young man, and almost immediately had experienced an emotion full of pleasure and melancholy; they were the first symptoms of love. Genevieve had perceived them and far from contending against them, had abandoned herself joyously to this growing passion. What had she to fear? The stranger was young, handsome, well made; he appeared poor; but she was rich, and is it not a double pleasure to have at the same time the power of conferring and enriching the one whom we love? This noble thought aroused still more the imagination naturally quick and enthusiastic, of the young girl, and upon she founded on this liaison, yet incomplete, some dream of happiness, some plans for the future, some hopes of marriage, which only awaited a mutual avowal, to realize themselves. But Baptiste with a single word had crushed all these dreams, these plans and these hopes. Without any doubt the Duke of Edesse was only a seducer like so many others; his cruidity, hypocrisy; his love, a caprice. Genevieve almost swooned at this terrible blow

"Well, Genevieve," asked Baptiste, in remarking the sudden paleness of the young girl, "what is the matter? Are you sick?"

"I do not know," replied Genevieve, "I feel very unwell. I will return home."

"Do you wish me to accompany you?"

"No, no, it is unnecessary. You can go on, Baptiste."

"As you wish," answered the soldier.

After having carefully arranged hit hat over one ear, he made a demi-tour to the right, and walked off, humming a military air and smiling complacently at all the women he passed.

Genevieve looked after her brother as long as she could see him, and when he had disappeared through the gate of Montmartre, she heaved a profound sigh and sadly took her way home. Alas! the young girl's heart was almost broken, and soon a violent fever declared itself.

Although the sickness of Genevieve was not of a very serious nature, it still cast father Poultier and his wife into great anxiety. They sent immediately for Master Patrolle, who was then court physician. Doctor Patrolle enjoyed, at this period an incredible celebrity; his plan had succeeded.

To tell the truth, the doctor had not his equal for curing all those little moral affections, which are called maladies of the heart; a breath of the illustrious doctor sufficed to dissipate those unwelcome clouds, which gather sometimes around the brows of pretty women. Master Patrolle had a smiling countenance, rosy lips, small white hands, a sweet voice, and delicate manners; his mouth was always full of pretty things, and his pockets of good things; in a word, he possessed all the qualities requisite to please the ladies and yet not arouse the suspicions of their husbands.

In entering Genevieve's chamber, the doctor first cast a rapid glance around him; then having placed his cane and hat on a table, he took a seat familiarly by the bed of the patient, and kindly taking her hand, said.

"My pretty child, where do you suffer?"

Genevieve pointed to her head.

"Yes, and where else?"

Genevieve shrugged her shoulders; she knew not what to reply.

"Yes.....well, my pretty girl, resumed the doctor, placing one of his hands on the bosom and breast of Genevieve, I believe that your pain is neither here nor there; but here—"

In saying these last words, master Patrolle, gently touched with his finger, the coverlid at that part which corresponded to the heart of the young girl; she trembled as if a pin had been suddenly thrust into her bosom.

"I see!" said the doctor.

Then drawing his chair closer, so as not to be heard by father Poultier and his wife, whom he knew to be listening behind the door, he said.

"My dear child, there are some sicknesses, which must be harshly treated in order to be overcome, and yours is of that number; answer then frankly this question. Do you know the duke of Edesse.

Genevieve began to tremble so violently that the doctor was afraid of having compromed his cure.

"Come! come!" resumed he, do not tremble so much; you are not questioned by your father confessor, but by a friend; answer me without evasion."

"Are you acquainted with him?"

"No Sir!" answered Genevieve with assurance; I do not know him."

The doctor, amazed, looked during several seconds at his shoe-buckles. As physician, master Patrolle, rumbled incessantly about the streets of Paris, and had—he was a keen observer—remarked several times the early and daily visits which the duke of Edesse, one of his friend's, had made to the handsome florist.

"I have deceived myself then, said he, and am glad of it, because the duke will marry shortly Mlle. de Laon."

Genevieve became now as pale as a winding sheet.

"But, continued the doctor, who feigned not to have remarked the emotions of the young girl, if I am ignorant of the cause of your sickness, I am not so of its nature; you are in love, my poor child, that is certain, and, what is worse, you are thwarted in your affections. How, and why, I cannot discover, and that probably you are not inclined to tell me at a first visit, soon I hope, you will put more confidence in me, and then you will claim my aid."

Master Patrolle accompanied these words with a sweet and gracious smile, and carefully placed on the bed the young girl's hand, which he had not ceased to hold during the preceding conversation; after which he went out.

"Well, Sir, anxiously asked father Poultier who was waiting for the doctor in the ante-chamber."

"It is nothing, answered this one; a few days of quietness, some glasses of lemonade, and all will be well again."

The doctor was going out, when Julian, who had entered the apartment a few minute before took him by the arm and unceremoniously conducted him to the street. Julian really loved Genevieve, and was greatly affected by the afflicted state in which he saw her; besides, he had remarked the sad influence which her sickness exercised on the culinary department of the house; he therefore experienced, like the rest, a strong desire to see the young girl restored to health.

"Doctor, said he, is that true which you said just now?"

At this strange question, the doctor regarded his interlocutor with astonishment.

"My friend, replied he, I am not in the habit of disguising the truth, even to my patients."

"Well, Sir, thanks, answered the drummer, warmly grasping the doctor's hand; for, I am Genevieve, affianced."

"Ah! said the doctor."

"Yes·····If ever you have need of me for a sword-thrust or any other thing, my name is Julian; I am drummer in the French Guards; remember that."

As the reader perceives, Julian anticipated a little as to Genevieve's affections for him; but he always had great confidence in his good looks.

"My friend, replied the doctor, smiling and familiarly shaking the drummer's hand, I do not think that I will ever have need of that sort of service; still, if such a case should happen, I will remember you."

Then having saluted each other, they went each his own way.

Scarcely had the doctor left, when Genevieve sat up; her cheeks all glowing, and her eyes glistening with that strange fire which fever produces; she remained for a long time pensive and silent, absorbed in the revelations of the doctor. Soon other reflections came to add to her disappointment. During her sickness the house door had been constantly beset by a crowd of lackeys of all colors and liveries, whom the great lords and ladies had sent to inquire f the health of the pretty florist; but no one had come on the part of the duke of Edesse. With that perspicacity which the women have for discovering those who love them, Genevieve concluded very ingeniously that she occupied but a slight place in the heart of the young nobleman; and, in a tone in which was evinced all the sadness of her thoughts, she cried:

"He was deceiving me!"

Then suddenly grasping her forehead, and throwing herself backwards, she exclaimed. "Oh! unhappy girl; now, how to forget him!"

Just then, Baptiste entered; his wig was more carefully powdered than usual, and his mustachios never had looked more fiercely. As soon as he saw his sister, he ran with open arms towards her, saying:

"Sweet sister, kiss me."

The sweet sister, astonished, threw an amazed look at her brother.

"Little dear, continued he, kiss then this brother." Genevieve advanced mechanically her lips; but the soldier shook his head:

"You are then blind? he said."

"Oh! Heavens! exclaimed Genevieve, finally, perceiving the gold lace which adorned the young guardsman's sleeves; I see! you are a sergeant!"

"Just as you say; I am the king's sergeant!"

"But what have you done?"

"Well, I do not know; the captain made me present of it; since the day he met you with me, he shows me all kinds of preferences."

At these words a sudden blush suffused the young girl's cheeks.

"Did he say anything of me to you, she quickly asked."

"I think he did!"

The New City Government.

On Friday, Dr. Kerr, our new Mayor, was sworn, and entered upon the discharge of his duties.

He has made a clean sweep of the police officers—not one of those who served under Mayor Howard has been retained. Mayor Kerr received many Whig votes, in virtue of an understanding that the old constables were to be removed. So we are informed.

The following are his appointments:

Clerk—Wm. McClure, Third Ward.

High Constable—John Rea, Sixth Ward.

City Constables—Thos. O'Brien, Third Ward; John Richards, Sixth Ward; Geo. Scott, Fifth Ward.

During the session of the Councils, a question arose as to whether Mr. Van Amringe, by leaving the State with a view of becoming a resident of Ohio, had forfeited the office of City Recorder. It was suggested that he should be sent for to administer the oath to the Mayor—the member who made the motion, contending that he was still Recorder as he had not resigned. We think there is no such officer as Recorder of the city; Mr. Van Amringe is not a voter in this state, and it would indeed be strange if he could, under such circumstances, hold office. We learn that he himself alleges, that by his removal from his district, his office was vacated.

The case of Scott and M'Giffin.

Yesterday morning, Shaler and Loomis concluded the arguments on the rule for a new trial and in arrest of judgement, in the case of the Commonwealth vs. Scott and M'Giffin, charged and convicted of being accessories before the fact to the burglary of Mr. Carothers house. The arguments were distinguished by the known ability and eloquence of the counsel. The court have granted a new trial. A report of the arguments will appear in our paper next Monday.

☞ The Councils meet on Tuesday next to elect city officers for the ensuing year.

☞ In the case of the Commonwealth, vs. George Koenig, indicted of malicious mischief reported in our paper yesterday, the jury have not yet agreed. They have been out since the 14th inst., and there is now little, if any probability of their agreeing on a verdict.

POLICE.—On Thursday morning there were no cases before his honor. This being his last day, the hard customers preferred appearing before his honor the new Mayor. The late Mayor and his officers were always accommodating to us when we called for information for our paper; we expect the new officers will be equally so.

Bishop vs. Stokton and Moore.

We see by the Washington papers that this case came up before the Supreme Court of the U. S. on Monday last. It is the case in which Miss Bishop received, in the U. S. Circuit Court, sitting here, a verdict of $6,500 against the National Stage Company, for injury by an upset. It was argued by Messrs. BRADFORD and COXE for the Company, and submitted on a printed argument, by Messrs. BIDDLE and MCCANDLESS for Miss Bishop.—Chronicle.

Twenty-ninth Congress.

FIRST SESSION.

From the Baltimore Sun.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.

SENATE.

Mr. Allen, in pursuance of notice given yesterday, asked leave to introduce his joint resolution declaratory of the course which the United States ought to pursue, and the principles by which it ought to be governed, relative to the interference of foreign powers with the independent governments of America.

Mr. Calhoun expressed his astonishment that the Senator who is chairman of the committee on foreign relations, to which all such matters ought to be first referred, should, on his own responsibility, and without consulting a single member of the committee, think proper to introduce such a resolution. He, Mr. C. thought the very fact of the movement originating without any consultation with the committee, a sufficient reason of itself for denying leave.

Mr. Allen made some remarks to the effect that he was endeavoring to carry out the views of the Executive, and Mr Calhoun again remonstrated against a movement of this kind being made on Mr. A's individual capacity.

Mr Jarnagin moved to lay the question on the table. The motion prevailed, yeas 28, nays 23

Yeas—Messrs, Archer, Barrow, Berrien, Calhoun, Chalmers, T. Clayton, J. M. Clayton, Corwin, Crittenden, Davis, Dayton, Evans, Greene, Haywood, Huntington, Jarnagin, Johnson, of Maryland, Johnson, of Louisiana, McDuffie, Miller, Pearce, Phelps, Simmons, Upshur, Webster, Westcott and Woodbridge.

Nays—Messrs, Allen, Ashley, Atherton, Benton, Breeze, Bright Cameron, Cass, Colquitt, Dickerson, Dix, Fairfield, Hanegan, Jenness, Lewis, Niles, Pennybacker, Semple, Sevier, Speight, Sturgeon, Turney, Yulee.

Mr. Crittenden introduced a preamble and resolutions, authorizing the President to give notice whenever he may deem it expedient, but giving it as the opinion of the Senate, that the notice ought not to be given until the close of the present session. They were made the special order for the same day on which the other resolutions, are to be considered.

Nothing else of importance transpired.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

As soon as the Journal had been read, the House went into committee of the whole, for the purpose of resuming the consideration of the joint resolution reported from the committee on foreign affairs, giving the Oregon notice to Great Britain.

Mr. Stanton having the floor, said that the consequences hanging on this debate might perhaps shake the globe to its centre. He contended that our title is good to every foot of Oregon. He was for giving the notice. In his opinion, it was not the notice which will cause war, but those ulterior measures may follow the notice. He maintained that the giving of the notice would hasten the peaceful adjustment of the question. He was for asserting our right to the whole territory, and if war should come, our business was to fight for it. He went on to say that if England should force us into a war, we should have the sympathy of all the world with us.

Mr. Gordon, of N. Y., next caught the chairman's eye. He was for giving the notice, and pointed that it would be a cause of war. Was not the notice provided for by the treaty itself? Suppose, said he, that Great Britain should under this treaty, undertake to give as notice, would that be considered a cause of war against her?—No, it would not. Then why did gentlemen raise such a cry of "war" whenever this notice on our part was spoken of. He went on to show that we are as well prepared for war now as ever we were. We have, said he, the raw material in abundance, and millions of men sleeping on their arms. In time of peace it was not the true policy of the country to "sickle armies and dry nurse the land." Whenever war should come, we would be ready.

Mr. Brinkerhoff followed on the same side. By the continuence of the convention, Great Britain was getting all she wanted. He was therefore for giving the notice.

Mr. Wentworth was afraid the people would justly think there was a great deal of humbug on this Oregon question, and that it was to be all talk and no action. He went for giving the notice, and contended that it had nothing to do with war. In the course of his remarks he said that the northern papers were using southern votes as an argument to prove that now, that by the help of Western men, Texas had been annexed, the southern members had changed their ground with regard to Oregon.

Messrs. Vance, Houston and Chapman, disclaimed any participation in any alleged bargain relative to Texas and Oregon.

Mr. Wentworth said he charged no one with bargaining. His speech was intended as an exhortation to Southern members, to do by the Western members as they had done by the South.

Mr. Chipman next got the floor He said he was in the predicament of a beggar girl, he once saw setting on a cold stone step, and crying.

"What is the matter my girl," said he.

"O," said she, "another beggar girl has stolen my story."

Notwithstanding, however, that all Mr. Chipman intended to say had been anticipated, he managed to make a long speech, in which he contrived to elicit shouts of laughter.

When he concluded the Committee rose.

Our Book Table.

THE "OLDEN TIME," Vol. 1 No. 1—A monthly publication devoted to the preservation of documents and other authentic information in relation to the early explorations, and the settlement and improvement of the country around the head of the Ohio. Edited by Nevill B. Craig

The work is of a very neat and handsome appearance, and the typographical execution does credit to our neighbors, Whitney, Dumars & Co. Each number contains 48 pages of reading matter. The number before us is filled with much valuable and interesting information concerning the settlement of the country along the Monongahela, Allegheny and upper Ohio rivers and their tributaries, including a notice of the claims of France and Great Britain, the Indian occupants, the first collisions between the French and English, accounts of Washington's journey to Venango and Le Bœuf, and a variety of other highly pleasing knowledge.

It is upon a subject, which should recommend itself to the attention and study of every intelligent citizen.

Published by J. W. Cook, Pittsburgh; price two dollars per annum in advance.

THANKS-GIVING SERMON. THE VIRTUES AND PUBLIC SERVICE OF WILLIAM PENN—A discourse delivered in the first Presbyterian Church, Philadelphia Nov. 27, 1845, by Albert Barns. Published by request.

This discourse sets forth some of the historical circumstances, which gave rise to the denomination of Friends or Quakers, and to the settlement of this Commonwealth by them; with inquiries into the bearing of the principles held by Penn and his associates on the institutions of our country.

Mr. Barnes pays a just tribute to the doctrine of the religious liberty and equality of all men, held by the Friends; to the heart religion manifested by them, in opposition to forms and ceremonies; and to their opposition to slavery.

It is a discourse filled with many just reflections.

A CONDENSED ANTI-SLAVERY BIBLE ARGUMENT—by a citizen of Virginia: printed at New York, by S. W. Benedict. This is a neat pamphlet of 91 pages. We have not had time to peruse it; but by glancing over its leaves, we see that the author enters deeply and earnestly into an examination and discussion of the Bible arguments on this most important subject, and exhibits what he considers the pro-slavery perversions of the New Testament. Inquiries of this kind, are fast engaging and engrossing the public attention.

This being petition day, a large number were presented on various subjects, and several Bills were read in place, among which was one by Mr. Piolett, granting the New York and Erie Railroad Company the right of way through Susquehanna county in this State.

Some debate was elicited upon a motion made by Mr. Ryder, to instruct the Committee on Vice and Immorality to bring in a Bill leaving it to the people to decide at the ballot box whether spirituous liquors shall be retailed within their respective limits or not. It was not agreed to, however. So, also, a resolution, offered by Mr. Webb, instructing the same committee to inquire into the expediency of allowing every person who will pay the license to sell ardent spirits.

The Senate did little of importance up to closing of the mail.

A Railroad Convention is to meet this afternoon at the court house. I will speak of it in my evening letter.

Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry!

THE great remedy for Diseases of the Lungs and Breast. Testimonials:

TO THE PUBLIC.—In accordance with the prevailing custom, and in order to show the virtues of this medicine more fully, the following certificates have been selected, and as it is our wish not to trifle with the lives, or health of those afflicted, we pledge ourselves to make no assertions or "false statements" of the efficacy, nor will we hold any hope to suffering humanity which facts will not warrant. The proofs are here given, and we solicit an inquiry from the public into every case we publish, and feel assured they will find it a medicine well deserving their patronage and confidence.

REMARKABLE CURES.—Of all the cures that have yet been recorded, there are none equal to those mentioned below, which plainly shows the curability of Consumption, even in some of its worst forms.

MRS GOULD, OR ANOTHER PROOF ADDED.

The cures performed by Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry are astonishing the world.

BOSTON, September 10, 1845.

To the sick and afflicted—Dear Sir: I take pleasure in communicating through you, to all whom it may concern, and the public generally, the astonishing effect your truly wonderful medicine has had upon me. I have not enjoyed perfect health for four or five years; physicians told me my lungs was diseased, and that I might some day die with Consumption. Last September, 1841, I took a slight cold, which produced a hacking cough; this continued until February, 1845, when I added another cold; my cough increased, I lost my appetite, and my strength failed for six weeks I could not lie upon one side; I sweat very much at nights; raised considerable blood during the winter and could not speak a loud word for two weeks; with all these bad symptoms, I had very severe pains in my side, and between my shoulders; general debility, so much so I was confined to my room about eight weeks; I had buried a sister and brother, both died with Consumption; I expected to die myself; my friends also despaired of my life. At this time, an uncle, who had been benefited himself, advised me to take Dr Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry; I accordingly procured a bottle, took it, and felt some better; obtained another, and a third; then I ceased to bleed, and my cough was better; but my disease was so deeply rooted, I was obliged to continue taking the Balsam, until I had taken seven bottles. I can honestly and truly say, I believe Dr Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry saved my life.

MRS MARY B. GOULD.

We are personally acquainted with Mrs Gould, assisted in taking care of her during her sickness; believe, and know the statement to be true.

ANOTHER VOICE FROM MAINE.

WOODBOROUGH, Me, July 30, 1845.

Dear Sir: Having experienced great benefit from your invaluable medicine, I feel it my duty and privilege, to let the world know what it has done for me; possessed of a strong constitution naturally, I had enjoyed perfect health previous to the spring of 1843, when I was troubled with a difficulty in my left side, attended with a considerable pain; sometime in July I was violently attacked with a cough, which continued until fall; then I was confined to the house eight months, during which time my cough was very severe; I frequently had spells of coughing which lasted two hours, daily raised large quantities of disagreeable matter, accompanied with blood; sometimes I raised a quart of blood at a time. I consulted three physicians, all of whom done their best to restore me; gave me up; said they could do no more for me; I must die; it was impossible for me to live but a short time, one of them said my lungs were gone: At this critical moment, when eminent physicians had exhausted their skill, friends dispaired of my life, my own hope of recovery at an end, I resorted to Dr Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry, when I had taken one and a half bottles, those severe spells of coughing were removed; I continued taking the Balsam until spring, April, 1844, when I ceased to bleed at the lungs, my health and strength improved so that I left the house, but was not able to work for a year, now my health is good. I am able to do a day's work every day on my farm.

Witness: Thomas Benner. JAS. COMERY.

☞ Beware of Counterfeits—Those who counterfeit a good medicine for the purpose of adding a few dollars to their pockets, are far worse than the manufacturers of spurious coin. For while the latter only robs us of our property, the former take property and health and life away. Dr Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry is admitted by thousands of uninterested witnesses, to have effected the most extraordinary cures in cases of a pulmonary and asthmatic character ever before recorded in the history of medicine. The young and beautiful, the good, all speak forth its praise. It is now the favorite medicine in the most intelligent families of our country. Such a high stand in public estimation has been achieved by its own merits alone. And so long as a discerning public are careful to get Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry, and refuse with scorn counterfeits, and every other article preferred to them as a substitute, so long will cures, positive cures, cheer the fireside of a despairing family.

The true and genuine "Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry" is sold at established agencies in all parts of the United States. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry, that not only relieves, but cures.

The Brocchieri Water.

On Saturday last Dr. Valentine Mott introduced a bottle of this famous liquid to the students of the Medical College in New York, which he obtained from the inventor himself while in Italy some years ago, and denounced him as an ignorant charlatan and his liquid as a humbug! Dr. M. had repeated interviews with Brocchieri, who offered him an agency for this country, as a money-making enterprise, which was of course contemptuously declined. Dr. M. has tried the stuff repeatedly, and had demonstrated its utter inefficacy and worthlessness! Thus is the latest medical humbug crushed in its infancy, before a single "certificate" of its efficacy had beguiled this western world.

The River and the Weather.

Last evening, at dark, there were 6 feet water in the channel and rising. Throughout the whole of yesterday, we had a steady warm rain; it began to fall before day light, and at the time we write (10 p. m.) still continues. We suppose we are now safe in proclaiming to all the world that navigation is freed from impediment.

The Brunette is loading for St. Louis. On Monday, we learn, several boats will leave.

☞ The Louisville Journal of the 13th says:—The steamer Juniata, bound to New Orleans, in going over the falls yesterday, with a flat boat in tow, became unmanageable, and ran aground.—The flat boat passed over safely. She was lightened off, and last evening floated to the head of Goose island. Her situation there we could not ascertain.

The river here was about on a stand, last evening, with 8 feet 1 inch water in the canal by the mark, There is but little ice in the river now.

The Railroad Convention.

The Baltimore Sun of Thursday, supplies us with a report of proceedings of the Convention at Harrisburgh, which is in advance of the direct accounts in our possession. We copy the following abstract and resolutions:

The substance of the action of the general convention, as contained in a series of resolutions adopted, is that Pennsylvania has great resources, and the means of securing the trade of the Ohio and the great Lakes within herself, and that she is blind to her own interests, and especially so is Philadelphia, if she neglects to secure that trade. That the Sunbury and Erie railroad is the only feasible route to secure the trade of the Lakes, and that such a road would be of great advantage, not only to Philadelphia and Erie, but to all the intermediate country and the State at large. That the legislature ought to incorporate a company to construct a railroad by the most practicable route between Harrisburgh and Pittsburgh, on such liberal principles only, however, as will not injure the public improvements already made.

The following resolutions relative to granting the right of way to the Baltimore & Ohio railroad were unanimously adopted:—

Resolved, That it is right, proper and expedient that the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania should grant the right of way to the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company to pass through her territory with their Railroad, to Pittsburgh, subject to such just and liberal restrictions on the use of the privilege as will secure to the travel and trade of Pennsylvania the same advantages on said road enjoyed by the trade and travel of Baltimore; and for this purpose, in granting the privilege, the Legislature ought to reserve the right by corporation created or that purpose or otherwise, to make a railroad or railroads to intersect it at any point within the State of Pennsylvania, Maryland or Virginia, which may be thought most advantageous.

Resolved, That the Legislature of Pennsylvania ought, and they are hereby requested to incorporate a company to make a railroad from the termination of the Cumberland Valley Railroad at Chambersburg to intersect the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad at such point on the same, within this State, as may be found most advantageous to the Commonwealth and her commercial metropolis, Philadelphia.

Resolved, That in the opinion of this convention the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad should be permitted to strike the Ohio river at any point below Pittsburgh, it will be ruinous to the main line of our public improvement and will retard the improvements of the Ohio river to the city of Pittsburgh, a measure which is of vital importance to the general interest of this Commonwealth.

From Mexico.

The startling intelligence we published in our last, of the refusal of the Mexican Government to receive our minister, Mr. Slidell, is reduced to an intelligible shape by the subjoined article, which we find in the New Orleans Commercial Times of the 7th inst.

MEXICO.—The U. S. ship St. Marys, arrived at Pensacola on the 2d inst., bringing later dates from Mexico. We have before us a letter from the city of Mexico under date of the 18th ult., which discloses the following information in regard to Mr. Slidell's mission:

"Mr. Slidell has been refused by the ministry to enter upon the negotiations respecting Texas, as he came here with credentials as a Resident Minister, instead of as a commissioner for the arrangement of a particular question."

This intelligence is somewhat astounding, inasmuch as the Mexican Government had offered to receive a diplomatic agent from the United States, and the excuse in the above letter for not recognizing him as empowered to settle all the pending difficulties between the two countries, is scarcely valid. Private letters mention that Mr. Slidell has written on to Washington for full powers; we know not on what authority this statement is made but it would seem a singular one, in his capacity of minister plenipotentiary.

The Pensacola Gazette of the 3d inst., notices the circumstance as follows:

The U. S. ship St. Marys arrived here yesterday from the Mexican coast, and we learn, brings intelligence to the effect that our minister, Mr Slidell, on his arrival there, was notified that he could not be received as such. He has not returned, nor do we undertake to vouch for the correctness of the news; but we are disposed to credit it on account of our critical relations with Great Britain, a circumstance of which Mexico would not hesitate to take advantage."

Railroad Accident.

The upward bound train to Xenia, in passing across road about two miles this side of Milford, on Thursday last, came in contact with a horse and buggy. The buggy was dashed to pieces and one of the cars thrown from the track, fortunately without injuring any one. The man in the buggy was unable to hold or control his horse.

☞ Giving an account of the death of Jambeau Ottawatomie, who died of excessive fire water, a Chicago editor says—"Thus, one by one, the red men are passing to the spirit land.

☞ We learn, says the New Orleans Picayune, that Mr. McAllister, one of the proprietors of the Natchez Cotton Factory, committed suicide a day or two since, by hanging.

Ignored.

Joseph Louapre, for manslaughter, whipping a slave Moustache, whereby he died, on the 20th of November last.—New Orleans Bee of the 7th inst.

THE MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE COMMERCIAL JOURNAL, Friday, P. M., January 16, 1846.

The business of the week has been small, and although we have been able to report an open river from the city down, and the Allegheny free to descending boats, we can hardly say that navigation has been fairly resumed. We have had a few arrivals of steamers from below to record, and two steam boats have come down the Allegheny, but these have not sufficed to give an impulse to trade. Our Manufacturers are busy, but our Merchants have generally little to do beyond the local traffic. A few days of moderate weather, such as we have had lately, will put a new aspect upon our business; to assure this, we have to-day a steady warm rain, which has every appearance of being general. This must clear our rivers of ice.

Stocks of goods, wares and manufactures generally, are large, we are informed, and well assorted, offering unusual inducements to country buyers.

Our notes of the market, exhibit no large transactions, and few changes in value, but we must not expect to give interesting reports of trade, while its principal channels are wholly or partially obstructed.

ALE—Prices remain without change: $7,00, including bbl is the uniform rate for the article. The several breweries have fair demand, chiefly for city sales.

ASHES—All descriptions are dull of sale. Pots, remain at 3@3¦c; we have no sale of moment to report. Scorchings, remain at 2½@3c. 26000 lbs of prime quality sold at 3c 2 p. c off for cash par funds. Sal-Eratus, sales at 4¦c.

BACON—New begins to arrive in wagons, and some lots of city cured are also on the market. Sales of the latter are made in a small way at 6¦c Hog round. Hams are worth 7c; Sides, 6¦c; Shoulders, 6c.

Several lots Bulk bacon have been taken from wagon during the week at 4¦ to 5c. We note especially one lot of 3,000 lbs sold at 4¦c 90 days, and another of 5,000 lbs at 5c, 4 months, interest added. The receipts of bulk meat by the river since the 1st inst. are 8693 pe, and 25,000 lbs and 210 jowls.

BUTTER—Is still duller than at last report, with a slight decline in value. Sales of choice Roll were made early in the week at 12¦c, yesterday at 11½@11c, for a fair article, and choice in a small way at 12c: 11 to 12c is a fair quotation now for the article, with diminished request. Keg is worth no more than 9 to 10c from wagon, and 10@10¦ from store: dull. The receipts by the river since the 1st, are 105 kegs and 89 bbls.

BEANS—Have given way a little, sales are made of good white at $1,10 to $1,12, to which we alter our quotations.

BEESWAX—Grocers take up the small lots received by wagon at 25 to 27c as in quality.

CHEESE—Is dull at 6¦@7c from wagon, and 7¦@7½ from store as in quality and quantity. The receipts by wagon are small, by river, since the 1st, 105 boxes.

CRACKERS—The advance reported some two weeks back is maintained. We quote Water at $4,00; Butter $4,75; Pilot bread $3,50; Sugar and Soda crackers 7¦c ℔ lb.

DRIED FRUIT—Apples have been the subject of considerable speculation during the last four or five weeks, and had run up to unusual prices, a fortnight or three weeks since. Last week we reported a decline, and this week a further slight reduction has occurred, with diminished request. Sales from wagon have been made of several lots at $1,25; one lot of 40 bushels sold from store at $1, 87¦c, the highest rate given. Dry Peaches. Small lots sold at $3,00 per bushel from store, very few in market.

FLOUR—Remains about as we reported it last week, notwithstanding increased receipts. Wagon lots have been taken at $4,25 to $4,37 for extremes. None but ordinary brands, however, have gone so low as $4,25. $4,31 is freely given, and buyers do not allow good brands to pass them at $4,37. A lot of 300 bbls Buffalo brand (Wellsburgh) rec'd per Rhode Island, went into store, with an offer of $4,50 for 100 of the lot refused and $4,62 asked: the brand however, is a favorite. Another lot was received per Belmont, 262 bbls, a part of which we learned late last evening, was taken at $4,37. There is some difference of opinion among dealers as to the tendency of the article, but the preponderance seems to be in favor of a further reduction. The receipts by wagon, are not over 200 to 300 bbls per day.: The receipts by the river since the 1st, chiefly in the last two days, are 1194 bbls: The price from store, by the dray load is $4,62, by retail $4,75, up to $5,00 for extra family.

FISH—We find no change in any description, and nothing doing beyond the sales of a regular local trade.

GRAIN—Wheat is nominally 5c lower than our last quotations, without sales None offered during the week, but we conform figures to what dealers will give: 80@85 cents.

Barley is less sought for; but still commands 65 to 75c as in quality; the high figure being given only for prime grain.

Rye—Ready sale at 55@56c; at 56c there was one sale to our knowledge, and we are informed that at Voegtly's mill 60c, has been paid for prime Rye. Very little coming in and demand active.

Oats—This article is without change, 33@34c, in large lots; 80 bushels sold at 33¦c: 300 bushels in lots of 25 to 50 bushels, from store at 37c; lots offered at 35c have been rejected.

Corn—Sales in a small way, at 45@50c.

HAY.—There have been no receipts by the river since our last. The recipts by wagon passing the city since during the week, have been 71 loads, of all sizes, sold at $14 to $16 ℔ ton, as in quality.

HIDES, NAILS AND STEEL—Juniata Common bar 3¦c cash, 3¦ on time. Boiled and puddled bar 3c cash, 3¦c time.

Juniata Nails—10 to 20d, 4¦c. Puddled and boiled nails 3¦@4c; A lot of mixed city brands Juniata, assorted, was sold by a casual dealer at 3¦c cash, but the transaction is no index to the real state of the market.

Steel—Spring 5¦ to 6¦; Am Blister 4¦@5¦.

Blooms—No sales, we quote still at $70 ℔ ton, for good Juniata.

Pig Metal—Two lots by steamboat, brought down the Allegheny, making together 67 tons, the quality fully up to No 1, sold at $32, 6 mos; No further sales of any description. Some small lots are hourly expected by the Allegheny; 50 tons Hanging Rock arrived by the river since the 1st inst.

LEAD—No sales of Pig, and no receipts since our last; we do not alter quotations.

LARD—Is dull, and a shade lower than last week; a lot of new in bbls and kegs, containing some very choice, at 6¦@7¦c, 6500 lbs in the lot; 25 kegs fair, No 1, sold yesterday at 6¦c; a lot, deliverable by wagon this day, sold at 6¦c. The article looks like declining further.

MOLASSES—57 bbls, received per Circassia n, sold at 36c cash; re-sold at 37¦c; 40 bbls to arrive per Defiance, sold in two lots 33c; one of the lots, 700 galls, re-sold at an advance, precise figure not stated.

POTATOES—Sales of Neshannocks and other kinds at 37¦c. The article is sought for in lots.

SALT—Nothing doing beyond a retail business, sales at $1,08@$1,12; for lots $1,06 is generally asked.

SEEDS—Clover has fairly declined to $5,12½@5,25; several lots have sold during the week at $5,25, and we met with a lot last evening of prime quality offered at that price, without a buyer. Several other lots, we are informed, are held for that price; 52 bushels prime, sold at $5,10. The article is dull even at the decline.

Timothy is fully worth $2,50 from wagon and that price is freely offered. The charge from store in a small way is $2,75@$3,00.

Flax will command $1,05; but we have no sale of magnitude to record.

SUGAR—The whole business of the week in new sugar, was confined to 2 hhds of poor quality, received per Circassian, which sold at 7c; old is worth 7@7¦c, for good to prime, barrels 4 and ½ cent higher.

WHISKEY—Common remains about as at last report, worth 21 to 22c. Wednesday and Thursday, small lots from wagon of country distilled, sold at 22@22¦c, in some instances subject to the addition of expenses. Yesterday two lots sold at 21c, while others brought 22c. Rectified ranges from 24 to 25@26c, the demand light. The receipts of common by the river since the 1st, are 327 barrels.

CATTLE MARKET.

Reported exclusively for the Commercial Journal, by JACOB GERHART, of the Wm. Penn Drove Yards, Allegheny City.

Friday, January 16th, 1846.

BEEF—The offerings of Monday and Thursday combined, (these being the cattle sale days,) did not exceed 115 head. The demand was active and attendance large, and the sales were at $3¦ to $4 generally, some few head fetching $4¦ nett.

CALVES—Not over a dozen head in, and all small, sales at $1,50 to $2.

SHEEP—Two or three small droves were sold at $1,25 to $1,62, some were taken before they reached the market.

HOGS—Not much sought for, and some sales of good hogs at $3,75 to $4 nett; we could not hear of any sale at a higher rate than $4.

MILK COWS—None offered worth reporting, demand fair.

HEWITT'S EXCELSIOR, and New York Illustrated Times.—The Excelsior, a Periodical Miscellany of original and selected literature, will be published once a fortnight, at $3 per annum. Each number of the Excelsior will consist of sixteen folio pges, elegantly printed with the best type, and on elegant paper, and embellished with engravings, prepared expressly for the work, and further enriched with a choice piece of illuminated music; besides original and selected architectural designs, and of a useful character.
